State pulls backing on termination of Belmore

by Arlene Surprenant
Two members of the Wilmington Housing Authority will reportedly resign this week over an ongoing controversy surrounding the firing of Executive Director Ella Belmore. According to Chairman Tom Siracusa and Al Meegan, both plan to submit their resignations by Friday because of a recent decision by the state Executive Office of Communities and Development not to support them in their litigation fight against the director. A third member of the board, Dot Butler, said though she was "very upset" with EOCD's about-face, she would not resign because she was elected to serve the best interest of the tenants of Deming Way.

Last week, Belmore's attorney sent a letter to the board warning of litigation should the board decide against rescinding an earlier vote to terminate Belmore. The board voted three-to-two not to rescind that vote.

Siracusa told this paper Wednesday morning he had been in touch with Alex Whiteside, chief counsel for EOCD. Whiteside reportedly said Friday the state agency was withdrawing its earlier position in support of the termination as well as a promise of funds for the court case. In a turnabout, Whiteside advised the chairman to reinstate Belmore, said Siracusa. When he suggested EOCD buy out the remainder of Belmore's contract, which expires in October, Whiteside informed the chairman EOCD decided against that route.

According to Siracusa, he had been following the direction of EOCD in the proper procedure to terminate an executive director. Now, he added, EOCD has "basically just abandoned us."

Whiteside attributed the change of heart by EOCD to the "involvement" of Belmore's state representative, said Siracusa. That representative, according to Siracusa and other sources, is James Miceli. Neither Miceli nor Belmore could be reached for confirmation.

According to Diane Butler, EOCD public relations spokesman, the change of heart was due to a misinterpretation of Belmore's contract. Though EOCD originally told Siracusa no cause had to be given for Belmore's termination, Butler said the contract "does require" that cause be given.

"That cause had to be clearly (Continued on Page 10)

MacDonald dumped from appeals board

by Arlene Surprenant
In a three-to-two vote of the Board of Selectmen Monday, James Hackett of Arlene Avenue was appointed a full member of the Wilmington Board of Appeals. Hackett replaces veteran chairman Bruce MacDonald.

Hackett was one of four members up for re-appointment to the board of appeals. MacDonald was the only full member up for reappointment. Hackett, Neil Buckley, and John Garrett were all up for reappointment to one year terms as associate members of the board. Garrett said in a letter he did not want to be re-appointed. MacDonald wrote a letter seeking re-appointment. According to Bob Cain, Hackett expressed interest in the fulltime position.

A majority of the board of selectmen felt their action was consistent with action taken last year to rotate the seats on the appeals board. Last year, in a controversial move, Neil Buckley was reduced from a full to an associate position. In voting in favor of Hackett, Dan Ballou noted that "change is good" and his vote Monday was consistent with his vote last year. He and new Chairman Mark Haldane said the move to replace MacDonald with Hackett was not personal and did not prohibit the board from voting MacDonald in as an associate.

"I firmly believe that after X amount of time they should move on," Ballou said. He added later that "I'm looking at what's in the best interest of the town of Wilmington, period."

Cain, who nominated Hackett, agreed. He added, by not re-appointing a member, his board was only offering someone else a chance to step in.

Both Gerald Duggan and Chester Bruce didn't see it that way. Both men voted against Hackett's appointment. Duggan argued in favor of setting up a written policy on rotation before voting a veteran member off the board. He said otherwise it looks to the public like "someone's out of favor."

"Around town it's going to be heard it's another personality conflict," claimed Duggan.

Bruce urged the board, too, to set up a policy limiting terms saying "it would be a just way of doing it."

MacDonald reportedly served as appeals board chairman for 20 years. Selectmen directed the town manager to send a letter of thanks to MacDonald for his many years of service to the town.

Selectmen tabled the three re-appointments of associate members to their May 26 meeting so that residents interested in filling the vacancies could apply for the positions. In addition to these positions, there are also two openings on the finance committee with the recent resignations of Paul Palizzolo and Bill Hanlon.

Daneen Martin was one of 21 WHS seniors to light a candle in the National Honor Society induction ceremony Thursday evening. The society also inducted 14 juniors.

Selectmen critical of counsel's benefits

by Arlene Surprenant
Saying "people should know," Selectman Chester Bruce on Monday spoke out against the town's practice of paying Town Counsel Alan Altman a salary package which includes health insurance and retirement benefits. Bruce raised the issue at the tail end of the selectmen's meeting as the board was poised to reappoint Altman to another one year term as Town Counsel. That vote was tabled to the May 26 meeting in order to allow Bruce to obtain further information.

Bruce said he was only recently informed that Altman is being paid health benefits and falls under the town's pension plan. He argued the practice was unfair since Altman was hired as "a consulting attorney" and was not really an employee of the town. In addition, he said, part-time employees are not entitled to the same benefits.

"What is this package costing the town of Wilmington for an outside consultant?" asked Bruce. He questioned if the school and water and sewer departments are contributing to his benefits since Altman also works for those departments.

Gerry Duggan supported Bruce's view.

"Mr. Altman is not a town employee. Nobody knew this until two weeks ago," he said.

Town Manager Michael Cairn seemed taken aback by the statements. He said in comparison to what town counsels in other towns make, even with the benefits Altman's $55,000 pay is on the low side of the salary scale. He said he wasn't aware of a contract between the town and Altman but rather this was more of an "historical arrangement" dating back 16 years to the time Sterling Morris was manager.

Bob Cain argued that Altman was not really a consultant hired for one job but rather is a person who offers his advice and services to many town boards. For what he does, added Cain, "I would consider Mr. Altman as donating his time to the town."

Bruce maintained that even though town meeting votes the bottom line salary figure, like himself, residents aren't aware of what they are actually voting.

"I'm spending money that I don't even know I'm spending as a selectmen," he said.

Several selectmen spoke out and said Altman has done a "fairly good job" over the years. The board decided in a three to two vote to delay action on Altman's reappointment. Dan Ballou and Cain were against the motion to table.

Liberty Pole skirmish highlight of busy weekend

A skirmish between the Redcoats and the Minutemen will be the highlight of Liberty Pole Weekend on Memorial Day weekend in Wilmington, but it will by no means be the only noteworthy event.

On Saturday, May 30, an encampment will be set up and open to the public at Rotary Park, opposite the Wilmington Police Station. Various colonial groups will be set up to demonstrate colonial crafts between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Also scheduled are children's games and a kite flying contest from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., and a demonstration of the Saugus Iron Works blacksmith shop from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. A musket shoot will also be held in another location from 10 a.m. to 12 noon, and a tomahawk and knife throwing demonstration from 1 to 3 p.m.

Saturday's kite-flying contest will be restricted to hand-made kites — no store-bought kites will be allowed. The contest is being sponsored by Forest-Conant Realty World.

At 3 p.m., a duel will be held between a British and a Colonial officer. A cannon demonstration is scheduled for 5 p.m.

Saturday evening supper will be at the Masonic Temple from 5 to 7 p.m.

A concert featuring the 18th century music of Jim Douglas will be presented on Saturday night at the Congregational Church at 8 p.m. George and Martha Washington will be honored guests at the concert. There will be colonial lanterns for lighting at the concert. Admission is $5, with tickets available from members of the Wilmington Kiwanis Club.

Also participating in the concert will be 30 youngsters from the Lorraine Spada School of Dance, who will perform a number called the "Massachusetts Hop."

Saturday night wraps up with a firebrand speech by Rep. Marianne Brenton and protests by colonials, with possible arrests. This will be at the gazebo on the Common.

Participants in the colonial weekend are also invited to attend a church service at the Congregational Church at 10:30 a.m. Sunday.

Sunday afternoon, the Liberty Pole parade forms at the Common, stepping off at 2 p.m. On reaching Rotary Park, the Minutemen raise the pole, in defiance of the British crown. When British troops arrive and demand the removal of the pole, a skirmish breaks out.

Musical selection

The National Honor Society induction ceremony always includes musical selections by members. This year, Kristen Lubanski sang, accompanied on the piano by Angela Gosse, who also played solo.

Solo

Lori Armstrong turned in a masterful performance on a difficult piece, a Hayden concerto.

Signing support

Political action was not absent from the senior promenade on Friday at the high school. School committee member Peg Kane (left) was asking people to sign cards petitioning the state for more funding for education. Tom McConologue of Patricia Circle signed one of the cards.

Selectmen support postcard campaign

by Arlene Surprenant
 The Local Aid for Education postcard campaign currently being conducted in Wilmington received support from local selectmen this week despite some reservations about the availability of funds and where those funds will end up. The board of selectmen agreed to send a letter of support for the grassroots campaign to Governor William Weld. The letter, said organizer Maria Holland, should inform the governor the campaign is town-wide. She told selectmen Monday the board's support would also make the campaign more credible. Holland appeared before selectmen this week to also update them on the volunteer parental effort to lobby for more state funds for education. She said 5,000 postcards are being circulated all over town. Of those, approximately 1,650 cards have been returned as of Monday and will be sent to the governor, local legislators, and members of the state Education Committee. In lieu of postcards, residents may write their own letters or phone their state representatives. Selectmen backed the effort. "I myself wholeheartedly support your efforts. I applaud you for that," said Chairman Dan Ballou. "I support the effort but it's not an easy problem to resolve," said Mark Haldane adding, "The state understands there's a problem; I'm not sure (though) where they're going to find the money." Haldane said more of an emphasis has to be placed on local aid. Chester Bruce noted he had no problem if the money goes to the students but he didn't want the money going "other places." The board voted unanimously to send the letter to the governor.

Problems surface on lakeside home

by Arlene Surprenant
 The Wilmington Conservation Commission last week continued a hearing on a proposed home by Silver Lake in order to address concerns about impact to nearby wetlands and the bank of the lake. Lois Mackenzie filed with the board in order to construct a home and do site preparation within the 100 foot buffer zone of wetlands. The narrow 12,000 square foot lot on Pond Street was purchased from the town in 1985. It had originally been owned by her family. When it was sold by the town the deed had a restriction in it saying the owner couldn't restrict the view of the lake. Environmental Specialist Ann Kasprzyk said she was concerned with the location of the replication area and the probability of destabilizing the bank of the lake if shrubs are removed. Commissioner Gary Mercer agreed saying the replication area is too near the home and more than one replication area may be required since this was a sensitive spot. He suggested reducing the size of the home and moving it further away from the wetlands. "I don't see this as being feasible at all," said Commissioner Bill Gately referring to the difficulty of pouring four foot walls in two feet of water table. Engineer Erich Nitzsche assured Gately concrete can be poured under water. "I have a difficult time picturing how they're going to put that in there," said Lynne Guzinski, echoing Gately's words. The board and applicant agreed to a site walk on Wednesday and a continuation of the hearing to May 20. Members also asked for information about the parcel's history and discussions with the town concerning the land sale.

Yentile tries again on permission to fill

by Arlene Surprenant
 A local farmer decided to go back to the Wilmington Conservation Commission last week in an attempt to get his agricultural land back into production. Joseph Yentile of Cross Street has been in a legal stalemate for over a year because his neighbor, Textron Defense Systems, appealed his original plan to fill in his own flooded land.

On Wednesday, Yentile, his brother Sam, and his attorney Frank DiLuna appeared before the board. "We find ourselves caught in a predicament," explained DiLuna, who blamed the problem on nearby urban development. Yentile's family purchased the property 60 years ago before neighboring lots were built up. DiLuna claimed once construction began water was diverted from Maple Meadow Brook and the 20 acre farm site is now in a low spot subject to flooding.

Yentile appeared before commissioners a year and a half ago. At that time, a majority of the board approved his plans to fill in a third of his land so he could use the farmland. However, the filling was too close to the wetlands and Yentile was told to get an engineer to help him with calculations. In the meantime, Textron appealed the commission's decision and the Department of Environmental Protection got involved. Yentile is currently appealing both a Superceding Order of Conditions and an Enforcement Order issued by DEP for stockpiling material within 100 feet of the floodplain line. That appeal, said the lawyer, could take the farm out of production for three or four years. In the meantime, the Yentile family continues to pay taxes on land that is sitting unused.

DiLuna said his client now proposes to fill in the land properly using the stockpiled material. He said Yentile would not be using the wetland soil and he would be putting haybales around the edge of the property as an erosion control. If the crops were grown in the present soil they would rot, claimed the attorney.

Commissioners said, because of the many issues involved, the project would be difficult. The commission's environmental specialist Anne Kasprzyk said, while she sympathizes with the applicant's hardship, Yentile would have to create a compensation area, include plans for restoration of the disturbed area in his Notice of Intent and provide the board with engineering calcs. In addition, she said the type of fill proposed does not meet the requirement of the Wetlands Protection Act. She suggested one solution might be to clear out the brook to see if that stops the flooding problem.

"I want to work with you," Chairman Dennis Poltrino assured Yentile. But he noted that this time everything had to be done right to avoid another challenge of the board's decision. Poltrino said it would be hard to reach a decision within Yentile's timeframe so that a crop could be planted by June.

"This was all forced on me. Nobody seems to care about what they're going to do to me in the future," cried out Yentile.

Several neighbors asked the board to take action to resolve the matter so the Yentiles can get back to farming. The board plans to meet again on the issue.

SOCIAL SECURITY LIMITS

Inflation has its bright side for recipients of Social Security benefits. Not only do they get cost-of-living increases in their benefit checks, but the amount they can earn without losing benefits also goes up with the rate of inflation - 3.7 percent last year. Persons under 65 can earn up to $7,440 in 1992 without affecting their benefits; over that, they lose $1 of benefit for each $2 they earn. For those between 65 and 69, the earnings allowance has been raised to $10,200; they lose only $1 of benefits for every $3 they earn over that figure. People over 69 can earn as much as they wish without cutting into their Social Security benefits.

If you've become eligible for Social Security this year, but find that you're earning too much money to get any benefits, it makes sense to disqualify yourself, electing to start benefits next year. The change will up your benefits three percent. (But don't neglect to sign up for Medicare as you become eligible, even a few months before.)

Hearing soon on West Street project

by Arlene Surprenant

A public hearing with the state Department of Public Works on the relocation of West Street and improvements in the vicinity of I-93, Rt. 129, and West Street could be held soon following a unanimous vote of Wilmington's Board of Selectmen Monday night. The board voted to get public feedback after disagreeing over the next step to take on the improvement project.

The on-again off-again project has been on the drawing boards for nearly 20 years. The state has taken some $3 million in property on West and Lowell streets in preparation for the project, including three houses which have been moved.

A letter from DPW's District Highway Engineer Laurinda Beddingfield triggered the lengthy debate. The letter addressed concerns raised by selectmen at their January 13 meeting. It ended by stating a small culvert located at the end of Westdale Avenue would only be replaced by a six by three foot culvert when the I-93 project gets underway. That project, she added, cannot get underway without the support of the town.

Neighbors in the area have been pushing for the promised culvert to alleviate ongoing drainage problems. Other neighbors, said Chester Bruce, have been vocal against any road improvements in the area. Bruce reminded the board selectmen voted unanimously in the past against the West Street project, even though the state had already made land takings in the vicinity.

In reference to the letter, Bruce repeatedly asked "Where is this coming from?" He said he was under the impression the improvement project was "a dead issue."

Town Manager Michael Cairra explained that the Inwood Office Park project off West Street and located in Woburn has been of concern to town officials and the subject of several executive sessions with the planning board as well as the subject of pending litigation. Though the office buildings will be located in Woburn, traffic will reportedly increase to 3,000 vehicles a day on West Street and directly impact Wilmington. In order to handle the additional traffic, town officials are seeking improvements to West Street. Bruce said he thought the town favored direct access to I-93 as a solution to the problem. Cairra noted "that was the preference" but the Federal Highway Administration does not approve of the direct access road.

"That is clearly not a possibility," he said.

Cairra suggested the town continue dialogue with the DPW on the construction project. He added the board still has veto power. Both Bruce and Bob Cain suggested holding a public hearing at this time to get a consensus from residents. Others agreed.

Haldane chairs board of selectmen

by Arlene Surprenant

Mark Haldane is the new chairman of the Wilmington Board of Selectmen. He was chosen Monday night in a four-to-one vote of his board. The lone dissenter was Chester Bruce, who offered no explanation for his vote in opposition.

Haldane replaces outgoing chairman Dan Ballou. Ballou noted that during his tenure one of the biggest challenges was the sewer issue. He said his board allowed residents a forum to express their views and encouraged "democracy in action."

In accepting the nomination, which was made by Bob Cain, Haldane stated, "I look forward to the coming year (and) I hope to aspire to the success of Chairman Ballou." He said later he would like the board to continue in the same direction as in the past and continue to address such issues as the budget and tax abatements.

Haldane will serve as chairman for one year.

BULLETIN...BULLETIN...Shriners' annual circus runs through Sunday !!!!

frankly speaking

by Kevin John Sowyrda

Maybe it's those long-winded, discombobulated dissertations at town meeting, which make me long for that moment of oral surgery when my four impacted wisdom teeth were extracted. Or, maybe it's the fact that as one of Wilmington's wealthiest landowners he's in a... shall we say... compromising position. Or, maybe it's the most recent charge being investigated by the Conservation Commission for alleged violation of environmental statutes.

Whatever it is, Alan Altman, Wilmington's perennial town counsel, may have met his match Monday night when selectmen Gerry Duggan and Chet Bruce successfully put on hold the counsel's reappointment, scheduled to take place that evening.

Barrister Al is now under the watchful eye of two selectmen and perhaps a host of Conservation Commissioners. Conservation Administrator Anne Kapszyk confirmed that a complaint is being investigated this week, just as one was in 1982 when Altman was cited for filling wetlands. This, in violation of a chapter and verse — 31 section 40 — taught the day Al apparently skipped class at law school. "He was fuming after we issued that warning letter," said Selectman Chet Bruce, who moved to table Altman's reappointment Monday night and chaired the Conservation Commission in 1982. "The simple truth is, his being the town counsel and a big, local landowner didn't mean he was going to be treated any differently," said Bruce.

Altman was treated differently Monday night. Accustomed to a board of selectmen which has always treated him with special deference, rarely questioning advice or performance, the board and its new member, elected in a landslide, suddenly saw fit to consider further what's been taken for granted previously — Altman's $1,250 (at least) a week job, plus bennies.

Ironically enough, those who champion Altman's tenure are his legal opponents, who seem to regard our barrister as the Joe Morgan of town counsels. "I'd rather fight Alan Altman because I'd always win," said John Brown, president of Local 1370 of the International Association of Firefighters. Brown said Altman has a reputation in labor law circles as "out of touch" and "lacking the expertise" to win cases. "He's not as prepared as the attorneys I walk in with," said Brown. "Wilmington needs far more expertise in labor law and retirement law than is currently available." The union president said numerous disability cases have been dragging in the courts because of Altman's "inability to catch up with the times."

Barrister Al isn't just lacking in the score card department but, according to Brown, in the area of diplomacy. Brown recalls the now-infamous grievance hearing in Wilmington when his union debated a new sick time policy with town counsel, who alleged serious alcohol and drug addiction problems among firefighters. But how was poor Al to know that one of those alcohol and drug crazed firefighters would some day become a selectman?

Al...let's put it this way. It might be a good idea to jot down 851-7355, the direct line to the Tewksbury Fire Department where you might want to call first next time your smoke detector goes off.

Maybe this explains the story that when Gerry Duggan was elected a few weeks ago Altman had a painful expression on his face closely resembling that of Town Manger Mike Cairns.

Selectman Chet Bruce, a veteran to local politics, has observed the town counsel for years. "It ain't exactly been a Paperchase" said Bruce, referring to the television series which popularized a distinguished law Professor Kingsley who inspired a crop of talented Harvard law students. "We have to decide why we are losing so many cases and if there's a possibility the town could be better served by a lawyer or firm more qualified," said Bruce.

But Barrister Altman's supporters have been quick to defend him, citing his expertise in local tax disputes. But that's probably a tough sell after the Textron ruling. Nonetheless, if you're a betting man, go with Altman for another term. He's got three votes in the pocket, with two selectmen ready to win not by defeating him, but in denting his inflated image as an attorney-at-law.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

As an independent voter, who votes for the person, not the party, I would like to comment on the display of questionable decorum at the annual town meeting.

When it was requested that Rep. Miceli be allowed to address the meeting, this was not as a Democrat, but as a representative of all of the people of the town. Good manners dictate that respect be shown to our elected leaders whether we agree with them or not. When Rep. Miceli is at the State House he represents all people of Tewksbury, not just the Democrats. He is indeed, as he states "as near as his phone" and is very courteous and helpful when approached. So let us shown our State Representative the respect he deserves. He may have had some pertinent information for the town. You will never know if you do not, at least, give him the courtesy of listening. The annual town meeting is a forum for townspeople to pull together, not a forum for partisan politics.

With reference to another matter. I am a senior citizen with a small amount of trash. I did not like paying the fee, but would not protest. The very same people protesting will now protest when other services are cut because the costs of the trash fee have to be absorbed by cutting other places. Time will tell.

The May 11, 1967 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington noted that:

Newly appointed Town Manager Sterling Morris of St. Albans, Vt., "seemed to be an all right guy."

Rep. Fred Cain was pictured displaying a sample of the fence that would be used by the State Dept. of Public Works for the Park Street bridge over Route 93.

Michael O'Rourke of Birchwood Road was appointed a midshipman, US Navy and was scheduled to leave for the Naval Academy in June.

A wet, wet Saturday washed out the three Little League baseball games scheduled for that day, but the parade went on as planned with about 500 spectators cheering from the sidelines.

Pineridge Cleaners advertised the finest quality shirt finishing in Wilmington - introductory offer, five shirts for one dollar. The offer was good for two weeks only.

A 1962 graduate of Wilmington High School, Daniel Mogelin earned a degree in zoology from UMass and was doing graduate work.

Bob Mullarkey was awarded a General Electric Foundation Summer Fellowship in Guidance at BU.

Lucci's Market offered fresh pork shoulders at 39 cents a pound; five pound canned ham, $3.98; and a 20 pound bag of U.S. No. 1 Maine potatoes for 46 cents.

Elia's advertised flats of annuals, for 69 cents; Fison's lawn fertilizer, $1 off; and fresh milk at 45 cents a gallon.

Too long = so long

by Larz F. Neilson

There they go again. The Wilmington Board of Selectmen hasn't learned anything in a year. Last year, selectmen unceremoniously dumped Neil Buckley from the Board of Appeals. This year, it was Bruce MacDonald who got the axe. A former selectman, MacDonald had served for about 20 years on the appeals board.

His handling of board matters may or may not have pleased everyone in town. In town politics, it is expected that there will be differences of opinion.

So, in the name of changing things around, the selectmen have dumped another person out of a position.

If the selectmen feel this strongly about rotating positions on any board, they should establish policy to accomplish this. And this policy should be brought up in discussion apart from the reappointment of any particular person. To their credit, two selectmen, Chet Bruce and Gerry Duggan, made this point.

And while the board is made up of five decent people, the board as a body sometimes fails to reflect that decency.

The manner in which Buckley was dumped last year was particularly inappropriate. The word was that certain selectmen actually wanted MacDonald's head, but Buckley happened to be the one up for reappointment. So they axed him, and then didn't even notify him, never mind thank him.

The selectmen's manner of dumping long-time appointed officials makes you wonder why anyone would bother to serve in a volunteer position. After you put in 20 years, someone decides that your time is up, and bang — you find that board you've been on is really just a trap door on the gallows.

This isn't to say that the selectmen can't change the people sitting on boards. They certainly have the right. But they should have the sense to make the change in a decent manner, up front and with sincere thanks.

Even if you don't like the person involved, there is little reason to unceremoniously dump someone from a position, with the only thanks coming as an afterthought. This type of behavior is a poor reflection on the selectmen, who are supposed to be the "town fathers."

The town budget has evidently become so tight that the selectmen could only afford the discount edition of How to Win Friends and Influence People, written not by Dale Carnegie but by his nephew Ralph.

Oh, by the way, the selectmen are looking for two people who might be willing to serve on the finance committee. The job offers long hours, no pay and the prospect of being dumped. Any takers?

Don't forget the food bank

The news last week was that unemployment for April was down. It appears that the economy has turned around, and things may be getting better.

But that good news came close on the heels of bad news on the March figures, which followed many months of bad news. Even as the economy picks up, there are still many people out of work, including some who have been out so long that their unemployment benefits have expired.

A few months ago, some Wilmington residents involved with the Community Fund started a food bank. Called "The Commissary," the food bank collects non-perishable food items and then distributes them to people in need. The food is available free of charge to Wilmington residents. There is no qualification process, and confidentiality is assured.

The initial turnout for donations was heartening. People in Wilmington really do care about their neighbors. The food bank has been a success.

As time passes, some people may have forgotten the needs of others. As long as there are people who are out of work, the need will exist for the food bank. And so will the need for donations of both food and money.

Donations may be dropped off at the Swain School on Saturdays between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. A blackboard at the school lists specific items needed, although any donations of food or money are greatly appreciated. Drop-off locations have also been set up at D&D Lock, Shawmut Bank, the Wilmington Woods Nursing Home, Lucci's, the Wilmington Redemption Center, and at the Town Hall.

Of course, people in need are welcome to come in for food. Pickup sessions are on Wednesday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m.

Wilmington school news

Shawsheen school

During April vacation week every classroom in the Shawsheen School was wired for cable television. Continental Cable of Wilmington installed outlets in every classroom and provided three locations within the school where we can broadcast programs to the classrooms.

Mr. Thomas Rhodes, parent and supervisor with Continental Cable, was instrumental in bringing cable to the Shawsheen School. As we move into the 21st Century the need for this technology will increase in importance. Because of Mr. Rhodes and Continental, the Shawsheen School will be poised to take advantage of new programs directed toward the schools. Continental Cable's commitment and involvement to education in Wilmington, specifically the Shawsheen School, is greatly appreciated.

On May 14 the Elementary Band will perform in concert at the High School auditorium. This concert includes the Elementary School Band and the Woburn Street Chorus. Kidsplace cleanup is scheduled for Sunday, May 17 at 9 a.m. There is a need for electric sanders. If you have one, please take it along. No children will be allowed to participate due to the use of power tools.

The next PAC meeting will be May 18, 7:30 p.m. Some of the agenda items will include the Staff Appreciation Dinner, June 4 and the Fifth Grade dinner on June 11. Volunteers are needed to serve both these events. Also on the agenda will be nominations for next year's officers.

The ice cream smorgasbord will take place on May 19. Order your tickets now as none will be sold at the door. Volunteers are needed to scoop.

The Elementary and Middle Schools String Orchestras will perform in concert at the High School auditorium on May 21 at 7 p.m. This program involves the Shawsheen School Chorus along with the Wildwood Chorus.

We've had an excellent response to our planned week long trip to Nature's Classroom for next October. We are going!!!

Mrs. Paula Pagliuca resigned as a kindergarten aid to Mrs. Murphy to accept a full time position as an educational assistant in Reading. Filling in for the remainder of the school year in the morning will be Mrs. Muriel Gravalles and in the afternoon Mrs. Diane Ferguson.

The Mini-Grant Committee will have $5000 to award to teachers next year thanks to the generosity of the PAC.

Wildwood School

The response to the C.L.A.S.P. after school program has been outstanding. Each week, 19 exciting activities are offered for the boys and girls at the Wildwood School. This program is possible due to the parents and staff members who volunteer to teach, babysit siblings, or assist with clerical duties. This program will conclude May 21.

Woburn Street School

The fifth grade students at the Woburn Street School are currently enjoying "The Voyage of the Mimi," an exciting 13 week adventure/drama about people and events on a research voyage to study humpback whales in the Gulf of Maine. These fifth graders are also busy preparing projects for the fifth grade science fair which will take place on June 5.

Farewells to the Woburn Street School will soon be in order for the fifth grade students. They are anxiously anticipating an orientation and transition program that will be conducted at the North Intermediate School this month. These students' fears are put to rest because of the informative activities that Mr. Tikonoff, the staff and students of the North School arrange for them. The move to a different facility in September becomes less traumatic because of this program. Our sincere thanks to the North Intermediate for all their help.

Kindergarten students and first graders were visited by Michael Glaser this past week. Mr. Glaser taught the students creative writing through the use of seashore animals. Also visiting the school was Mr. Wizard's Invisible World. Air's incredible force, "The Hindenburg," and a hot air balloon launch excited the students along with many other discovery type experiments. Many thanks to the Woburn Street School Pac for funding these educational programs.

The next Pac meeting will be held Wednesday, May 20, 9:30 a.m. in the school cafeteria. Elections for next year's Pac officers will be held. Please join us!

DON'T BE "CAR" LESS

QUESTION: If I am involved in an auto accident and my car is out of commission, will my auto insurance pay me for the use of a rental car until mine is ready?

ANSWER: "Rental reimbursement coverage" will pay for part or all of the cost of renting a substitute car if yours is disabled by collision or comprehensive loss (such as theft). This coverage pays you up to $15 per day up to a total of $450 and starts 24 hours after your car is out of commission. Rental reimbursement may be added to your policy now or at the beginning of the next policy period at a very reasonable cost. Transportation today is no longer a luxury—it's a necessity.

IF YOUR CAR is disabled due to an accident, insurance will help pay for a rental car.

German firm locates in Wilmington

Huettinger Electronics, Inc. is producing a complete line of radio frequency (RF) technology products for the American market in its recently opened U.S. manufacturing facility. Nearly 50 percent of the RF products manufactured by Huettinger in the U.S. will power laser machining systems, others will be used in the plasma, semi-conductor and induction heating industries.

Huettinger Electronics Inc. is a subsidiary of Huettinger Elektronik GmbH, a mid size German company.

Huettinger's TIS 6.6 kilowatt RF generator, used by Trumpf in its lasers for the sheet metal fabrication industry, represents the company's leading product line. In addition to the 6.6 kilowatt RF-generator, Huettinger offers a wide range of DC, RF and microwave products using solid state and standard technology. Huettinger's products, in a variety of power levels and frequencies from 2 KHz to 2.45 GHz, are suited for the plasma, semi-conductor and induction heating industries. Rounding out the product offering is a full line of RF matching networks for plasma technology and complete systems for induction heat treatment.

Manufacturing for Huettinger is managed in the state of the art facility in Wilmington. Huettinger's manufacturing area includes a testing facility, anti-static room, computerization and tie-in of vast electrical services and central water for special cooling systems.

Heading up the U.S. office is Ed Locke, manufacturing manager. Prior to joining Huettinger, Locke held the position of laser engineer with Trumpf Inc. where he worked extensively with the Huettinger laser power supply and became known as the RF "expert." He has a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering from Boston's Northeastern University.

Holding the position of senior electronics technician is Alex Lais. A five year veteran of Huettinger GmbH, Lais has considerable experience working in the electronics test field as a technician.

Other key positions are held by Bruce Burke, plant manager, and Roy Nickerson, finance material control administration.

For more information on the variety of RF-technology products manufactured by Huettinger, call Huettinger Electronics Inc. at (508) 658-9760.

Tewksbury Camera & Video, 1215 Main St, Tewksbury (508) 851-9638

Doing what you love and loving what you do is important in a small business. Brenda Freitas does. She's been in photography since 1965, and she opened her photo shop in 1981. Her business has expanded, as all businesses did in the 80's, and she's still here!

You know that you can buy film at Tewksbury Camera and Video. And of course cameras. But its the little things that surprise you. How about a flash bulb for that old Brownie? Yes, it's in there! And the film? You guessed it! Is that old 8 mm or Super 8 movie camera collecting dust in your closet? Get it out and have some fun with it. If you have an old camera and would like to try using it, Brenda has the supplies needed. If it's broken... it can be fixed.

Repairs have become a major part of the business... cameras, camcorders, VCR's, and even computers. Any brand can be repaired, whether or not it is sold by Tewksbury Camera & Video. Brenda now sells Apple and Apple Macintosh computers and accessories.

Video rentals are still hot. You can rent the latest releases here, too. Here's the twist: Training Tapes. Do you know how to run Lotus 123? Pagemaker? you can learn by watching a video! You can rent it at Tewksbury Camera & Video!

As you would expect, Brenda sells cameras and video equipment. Kodak, Fuji, Pentax, Ricoh, Polaroid and all the accessories including film, tape and all the extra toys. The best thing in the store is the expert advice. Buying camera equipment from a large chain may save you a dollar if you know exactly what you need, but don't count on a department store clerk to know the difference between ISO and Lumens. Come to Tewksbury Camera & Video for clarity!

Tune Town, 1875 Main St, Tewksbury • 851-3799

Upon entering the store one is first impressed with the huge inventory packed into such a small place. There are literally tens of thousands of cassettes and CD's jammed into Tune Town.

They carry over 10,000 titles of pop 100's, country and movie sound tracks in both CD and on cassette. But that's what you would expect. What you don't expect is to hear the owner, Sarah Robson listening to WZOU or KISS 108! But she does! She's doing her homework. Many customers come into the store and ask for that CD with and then they sing part of a song. Some only know the artist or only the name of the song. Sarah knows which CD to sell. (Or at least with a little research she can find it.)

If you collect 45's this is the store for you. They have access to every 45 still in production and some that are no longer available elsewhere. Special orders are always welcome for 45's, CD's or cassettes.

Something new is the cassette single. Most are priced under $3.00. They replace the 45. They carry only one song, which is nice if that's the one you want to hear, not the whole album. Many DJ's are using this system now. Tune Town carries over 500 titles. Some are on special for only 99¢!

Located across Main St. from TewMac Airport, Tune Town is more convenient than the mall and priced about the same or less.

Sarah Robson brings a Springsteen album to the front of the store.

Yes, you can find special sales for some top hits at better prices, but you are charged more for the other music you buy.

CD's are fast becoming the favorite of the baby boomers. They can listen to music from the 50's, 60's, 70's and even Big Band on CD now. Classical music is available for as little as $6.98 on CD. And they don't wear out!

Center of attention

The center of the action at the WHS promenade was the television camera. Two by two, couples each had their moment in front of the camera. In front are Mike King, Jen Sban, Brian McCarthy and Lynnette Sban. Waiting behind them are Bob Fisher and Jaylene Ashdown.

Rep. Miceli announces new sentencing law

Representative Miceli has announced that Chapter 460 of the Mass. Act and Resolves has been put into place to give a mandatory one year jail term to any individual convicted of leaving the scene of an accident where a fatality has occurred. The previous law was flawed because it hindered the prosecution of the at-fault operator. The toughness of this law is exemplified by the provision which states that any person serving the one year mandatory sentence is ineligible for probation, a suspended sentence, parole or furlough.

Family photogs

The senior promenade at the WHS gym brought out the family photographers. Emily King and Renee Sban moved to the front of the crowd to get shots of their siblings in the promenade.

Rep. Miceli works toward elderly insurance reforms

With the cost of nursing home care exceeding $30,000 annually, Representative James R. Miceli is increasingly active in the battle to reform long term care insurance standards. Miceli is concerned over protecting the individual's life savings and ensuring their geriatric needs are met to better prepare senior citizens needing long term care services.

Current options include plans with annual rising premiums and others not factoring in inflation costs, thus not attaining advertised goals and misleading senior citizens.

Newly sponsored legislation would move the power to regulate LTC insurance policies to the legislature. This would protect seniors from unscrupulous vendors by including the creation of certification standards for agents and establishing a seniors' counseling program.

After learning of these occurrences Rep. Miceli expressed a desire to overhaul the current system.

L.T.C. insurance coverage is presently a topic of much debate on Beacon Hill but any policy holder with relative questions is encouraged to contact the Division of Insurance at (617) 727-3333. Simultaneously, Rep. Miceli will continue to seek reforms in this area.

Personality Pet Boutique
by Lynn Snyder

"Your Dog: Host to a Horror Story."

They lurk in the grass, hide in the damp brush that borders your yard. They wait to pounce onto their unsuspecting host. Yes, I am talking about TICKS! These blood sucking parasites need a warm blooded host to feed on, and your family dog or cat is perfect - laying in the grass or snooping in the woods. The tick grabs onto your pet's legs and fur and crawls up to attach itself around your pet's head or ears.

You can prevent infestation of ticks by keeping your pet's hair trimmed short and by applying tick dips which will aid in repelling for a few days. Read the labels to make sure the flea & tick products you use are safe for your pet, some insecticides are hazardous to cats and young puppies. Equip your pet with a quality tick collar or use a powder or spray weekly and you are ready.

Daily inspection will be needed during this time. Ticks will be around during this warm & rainy season. They don't tolerate the heat & dryness of the summer. If you do find a tick on your dog - do not kill it ON your dog! Remove it first, by gripping the tick close to your pet's skin at its head with tweezers, give it a twist and pull it firmly out. Place the tick in a jar with insecticide or alcohol to kill it.

It is important to keep ticks off your dog because deer ticks, found in this area, carry infectious diseases like Lyme Disease. Both humans and pets can get this and symptoms consist of a rash and progress into arthritic conditions. Don't be alarmed though, not every tick is a carrier and the range of Lyme Disease is decreasing due to the building of new houses.

With this information you can be ready to battle the ticks, but if you feel you don't want this fight alone, call the experts at Personality Pet Boutique, 1269 Main St., Tewksbury, 851-8155 to start your pet on a flea & tick prevention program so you and he will be happy.

Tip: If you find the larger female tick on your pet, there are usually one or more smaller ticks in the same area. These are the males and you can guess what they are up to, so make sure to get them all.

HEADING OFF FLAKES
By Linda Gaffey

Even though 85 percent of the population experiences flaking of their scalps, only about a third of this number should be treating themselves with medicated dandruff shampoos. These are required only in cases where the flakes are oily and clumped together. This condition is caused by the overabundance of normal scalp bacteria which increase scalp irritation and cell turnover. Medicated shampoos help stop the growth of these bacteria and any related dandruff. On the other hand, dandruff, which is fine, dry and powdery, is a symptom of dry scalp. This condition is brought on by harsh shampoos, heat styling, or dry indoor heat. It may be halted through the use of a conditioning shampoo, a cooler blow-dryer setting, and avoidance of styling products that contain propyl or isopropyl alcohol. Your hairstylist can evaluate and recommend the best treatment for this condition so that you can look and feel your best. We offer you expert services plus the finest Matrix® beauty products at SHAWSHEEN HAIR SALON, 161 Shawshen Ave., Rt. 129, Wilmington. Hours: Open six days and nights of the week, closed Sun. Let us introduce you to Systeme Biologie®, a natural and therapeutic hair care solution. Our salon uses only environmentally safe products. M/C and Visa are welcome.

Actrol® Dandruff Shampoo is recommended for scalp problems - 20% off with this ad.

HINT: Once a medicated shampoo has dandruff under control, cut back on its use by alternating with a regular shampoo.

Marketing class meets Agfa directors

Recently the marketing management class at Wilmington High school shared a Junior Achievement experience that will be remembered by the students.

As is the norm for Junior Achievers, the students with the help of their advisor and teacher, did a market research, developed a simulated product, named the product, and did a cost analysis for the production. However, the new element that the high school students experienced, was to actually go before a "real life Board of Directors of a Wilmington industry" and compete for simulated investment funds.

Agfa Industries volunteered one of its Production Managers, Carl Forest, to participate in the marketing management class' Junior Achievement project. Mr. Forest directed the students through the preparation process of marketing an item, including the competitive factor. The class was divided into two companies. Each group researched, developed, named and did a cost analysis of their simulated product.

The group was then invited to an executive board meeting at Agfa where managers decided on the plausibility of the products and made a decision on which product to invest. The decision was made on the merits of the research, the cost, the creativity of the produce and the presentation. The "Water Bottle" won over the "School Calendar."

After a tour of the Agfa facility, students were invited to enjoy a lovely luncheon buffet held in the boardroom. The entire experience was an "educational bonanza" and the high school students were very appreciative.

Lifeline pager available

Winchester Hospital offers Lifeline to the community. Lifeline is a small paging device which can be worn around the wrist or neck. With just a press of a button, a signal is sent to Lifeline Central, a terminal in Watertown, where certified personnel are trained to receive emergency calls 24 hours a day. Once Lifeline personnel are alerted, they call the Lifeline subscriber at home.

In observance of Mothers' Day and Fathers' Day, Winchester Hospital will offer free Lifeline installation for the months of May and June, 1992.

If you would like the security of knowing that help is never out of reach, call Winchester Hospital at (617) 756-2657 and find out more about Lifeline.

St. Thomas grade 1 registration

St. Thomas' Parish has invited parishioners who wish to enroll their children in the weekly grade one program to a coffee hour on May 14 at 7 p.m. Grade one will meet Wednesdays from 4 to 5 p.m. in the lower church.

Belmore

stated," she said, adding the whole matter rested on "purely a legal matter." Butler sidestepped any confirmation of whether Miceli had played a part in EOCD's recent decision.

Siracusa said he was discouraged and frustrated by the turn of events. He blamed much of the problem on "politics."

"It's all political. They (EOCD) even admit it," said Siracusa, adding, "Our resignations will go in immediately if we're forced to rescind."

Meegan echoed his chairman's words and expressed similar disillusionment with EOCD's present position.

"We followed EOCD's opinion. Now EOCD is blackmailing us. It all comes down to blackmail," said Meegan. He added that the housing authority has been given "a license to discriminate" and, in the end, any further action on his part was just "not worth it." He said he, too, plans to resign unless another attorney comes forward to represent him.

"I will not reside on a board that is controlled by politics," he said.

John Durand, Special Program Administrator of the Massachusetts Union of Public Housing Tenants, told this paper he will ask both Meegan and Siracusa to hold off on their resignations while he tries to get them legal representation.

When contacted for comment, Butler said she was upset with EOCD's action. "I think it was very unfair. The state agreed every step was the proper thing to do. Now it seems politics can turn the wheels. We should not have politics running Deming Way," she said.

Ken Dorrance had just been hired as interim director and was poised to take over Belmore's position on Monday. He, too, expressed anger over the situation.

"I just gave up my job because I thought I was in this job. Someone's going to pay me something. They'll (housing authority members) be hearing from my attorney," he promised.

Dorrance blamed the situation on "incredible politics."

"I've seen some politics in my 18 years with the state but nothing to match this. It's inconceivable that a majority of a board makes a decision and they have to rescind it," he said.

In a sidenote, which may explain why some authority members are determined to keep Belmore on board, WHA member Dan Gillis told this reporter he had heard that former selectman Rocob DePasquale was interested in the executive director position. DePasquale confirmed this week he did mention a "rumor" to that effect to several local residents. He stressed it was just a rumor and he was not interested in the position. DePasquale has traditionally been on the opposite side of the fence, politically, from both Gillis and Rep. Miceli.

Wilmington Little League

Yankees trip Orioles, 4-1

Senior League Yankees 4 Orioles 1

The Yankees (4-1) faced tough pitching from Orioles' ace Gilbert as he struck out nine, walked five and allowed only two hits.

Harrison completed the game for the O's, striking out one and walking one.

The Yankees seem to have found a winning one-two punch in Haubner and Parker. They combined for eight strikeouts, three walks and three hits. They were backed up with an unassisted double play by Lemos.

Gilbert tried to help his cause as he managed two singles. Phil Bates contributed with a double. Although the Yankee bats were quiet, they made the most of what little was given them. Esher hammered a single for an RBI and stole home. Iannacchino also rapped a single for an RBI.

Yankees 12 Tigers 5

This is the third time the Yankees paired the pitching of Ryan Haubner and Rob Parker with the same results. They allowed seven hits, three walks and struck out six. Jay Iannacchino single handedly put seven Tigers down at first.

The Tigers sent Chris DiJulia, Considine and Bill Holloway to the mound. Their efforts fell short, as they gave up nine hits and walked 12.

Hits and RBI's came off the Yankee bats of Crowley, Cullen, Haubner, Iannacchino, MacDonald, Mitza and Parker. Bill Lemos was the offensive standout with a double, two triples and four RBI's.

The Tigers were no strangers to the bases, as 16 reached safely. Their attack was led by Jason Gardner and Sean Carlan with two hits and an RBI each. Bill Holloway, Nick Pauliois and Ryan Swasey each collected hits, while Swasey and O'Dea chalked up RBI's.

Red Sox 7 Twins 5

Rookie pitcher Jason Giangregorio pitched an outstanding game, picking up his second win of the season. For the Red Sox, Paul Bruno played an all-around great game. Paul had a hit, he stole two bases and scored two runs and he made some great defensive plays.

Brian Farkas, Dylan Rogers and Keith McLaren all had hits. Aaron King got a big hit for the Sox as well.

For the Twins, Rich Gillis, Steve O'Neil and Pat Cahill kept the Twins in the game by collecting some big hits. Jones Montalto, Dineen and Perrault played well for the Twins.

Red Sox 15 Blue Jays 8

The Red Sox improved their record to 3-3. Sox slugger Brian Farkas went three for three and drove in two runs. Brian's current batting average is .714 with seven RBI's.

Gregory Peters and James Scott collected two hits apiece. Red Sox pitcher Paul Bruno pitched a complete game, earning his second win of the season. Paul struckout 11 Blue Jay batters and currently has 33 strikeouts for the season.

Santini, Largenton and Vitale kept the Blue Jays alive swinging hot bats. Pelletier and Lacordia played well in the field.

White Sox 5 Indians 4

P.J. Heffernan pitched a strong six-hitter for the White Sox while striking out 14 Indians. Dennis Torpey (two runs), Heffernan (two runs) and Matt Rutledge (one run) paced the Sox attack with some fine base running.

The Indians offense was led by Dave Mulik (three hits), Dennis Ingram, Mark DiGiovanni and Chris MacDonald.

Minor League Cards 14 Cubs 5

The Cards received good hitting from Mark Rappoli, Eric Swieczynski, Jason Harris and Mark Haubner.

Adam Clancy pitched for the Cubs and got support from the good fielding of Ryan Loyd, Mike Fournier and fine catching by Greg McInnis.

Giants 14 Cubs 8

Derek Mazza pitched well for the winners, receiving great backup from the two-run homer from Scott Aldrich, fine hitting and fielding from Chris Maglio and Ryan Maroney.

John Gillis tossed well for the Cubs backed up by good hitting from Adam DiPasquale and Joe Sullivan and fine fielding by Randy Peach.

Reds 15 Dodgers 14

Mike Pierni's two-run double was the key hit in a four run sixth inning rally for the Reds. Brian LeBlanc led the way with three hits, followed by Kevin Bourinot and Joe Delaney with two each. Solid defensive plays were made by Darren Arciero and Kevin Bourinot.

Dodger hitters included Josh Murphy with three and Bobby French, Dennis Sullivan, Chris Censullo and Brendon Mallon, all with two hits apiece.

Girls' softball Cubs 6 Angels 4

With the great pitching of Colleen Campbell, the Cubs flew over the Angels behind three homeruns, two by Catherine Townsend and one by Christine Gilbert, a triple play by Kristi Langone and a double by Lauren Senesi.

The defense was led by Kara Langone, Maura Lynch, Jen Hart, Carolyn and Michelle Carvalho, Nicole DeBlois and Kerri French.

The Angels had an excellent game from Kristen O'Toole, Robin Mainini and Meghan Sullivan.

Cubs 3 Mariners 0

The Cubs sailed past the Mariners in a closely fought pitching duel between Cubs' ace Catherine Townsend and Mariner ace Kim Johnson.

Townsend pitched a no-hit, 16 strikeout game with a two-run homerun by Lauren Senesi and a homerun by Catherine Townsend and great defense by Lauren Senesi and Colleen Campbell.

As the close score would indicate, the Mariners played a great game with fine defense from Devon Lyman, Kristen Jagodynski, Sarah Powers and Kim Johnson.

WHS softball girls storm back

Following two weeks of some frustrating and heartbreaking losses, the Wilmington High School varsity softball team stormed back into contention in the MVC Small School race.

Consecutive 6-4 losses to Billerica and Lawrence and a heartbreaking 4-3 decision to Haverhill had the young Wildcats wondering.

True to form, they buckled down, continued to play good ball and began to get some breaks while rolling to victories over Lynn English, 13-1, Andover, 8-4 and Lowell, 14-5, with their only loss being a well played 3-0 defeat to Methuen.

The Lady Wildcats continue to get strong offensive output from freshmen Laurie Southmayd, Nancy Pote and Erin Falzone as well as sophomore Stacey Gillis and junior Nicole Ouellette.

The defense has been shored up with the addition of Alyssa Georgalis moving to firstbase along with the fine overall play of Lynnette Berger at secondbase.

Some consistent pitching from junior Lee Iannacchino as well as the emergency of freshman Lindsay Currier has kept the young ladies in every game.

Wilmington faces a strong and decisive week coming up when they take on Haverhill (12-2) under the lights on Wednesday at 7 p.m. at Town Park with games against Lawrence and again under the lights Monday, May 18 against Billerica (12-2), leaders of the Large School Division.

Wilmington's junior varsity teams continue to play well, running their record to 10-2, while the freshmen continue to lead the MVC Freshman League with an 8-1 record.

Wilmington over-35 softball

Charlie's drubs Legion, 12-3

Charlie's Auto Body 12 American Legion 3

Charlie's Bats exploded with all 12 runs in the fifth inning. John Chiampa, Peter Brown, Jimmy Hatchey, Ronnie Barker and Billy Pote all had two RBI's each in this inning. Jimmy Hatchey not only was 2-2, but pitched four solid innings of one run ball.

For the Legion, Eddie Doherty was (3-3) with a triple and Steve Shepardson had two hits for the losing cause.

Colonial Park Liquors 13 Lions Club 0

Colonial had everything-pitching, offense and the defense. First of all, the bats had 13 hits, including homeruns from Bobby Butters and John Smith. Next, was the pitching where Chuck Osgood left off where he was last year with a five inning, one-hit shutout, leaving Mike Garabardi's triple the only hit against him.

McTire 13 Rocco's 7

McTire's bats were hot early, with 18 hits, including three from Bob Frongillo. Other key hits were by John Dolan, Bob McKenzie and Paul Fullerton.

Herbie Marsh had three hits, including two triples for the losing cause.

Stelio's 6 American Legion 5

The Legion was ahead 4-2

throughout the entire game. Dana Gilardi and Doug Smith had two hits each for the Legion, which looked like they were going to capture their first win. But, in the seventh Bob Surran's two-run double and a Wally Welding RBI single helped Stelio's take and keep the lead.

Surran had two hits with four RBI's, while teammates John Engdahl, Bob Bamberg and Wally Welding all had two hits each.

REMAX race May 30

REMAX Hearthstone Realty, located at 1215 Main Street, Tewksbury, has announced its list sponsors for the RE/MAX Challenge Road Race. The race, consisting of a 5K/5 mile run and a five mile walk, is set for May 30 at the Northmeadow Racquet and Fitness Club. The fee is $10.00 in advance and $12.00 on the day of the race.

Net proceeds go to provide scholarships for Tewksbury High School age students in both public and private schools. All funds are placed with the Tewksbury Citizens' Scholarship Foundation.

As far as recent cash contributions are concerned, Dana F. Perkins, Inc., a Tewksbury engineering firm, has donated $1,000 cash to the fund. Janet Lougee, the President of the firm, said: "Our business is going exceptionally well now and we are pleased to do something for the local community." Great Western Mortgage has pledged $250.00, GMAC Mortgage $100.00, Stoneham Cooperative Bank $50.00 and Rt. 38 Liquors $25.00.

Since most of the runners and walkers have no chance of actually winning the race, RE/MAX Hearthstone has also made arrangements with many local businesses to put up prizes which will be raffled to the runners as an extra incentive to run.

Many exciting prizes are being offered. Northmeadow Racquet and Fitness Club has pledged four one year basic memberships to the club, a total value of approximately $3000.

REMAX of New England has pledged three rides in its hot air balloon and four Red Sox tickets. Holiday Inn of Andover/Tewksbury has donated three free weekend nights at its fine hotel. Mahoney's Too has donated a $100 gift certificate. Additional raffle tickets will be sold at the race and there will be refreshments served by Northmeadow.

Poland Springs will provide free water, cups and coolers and cases of it's line of sparkling water will be sold to raise additional funds. The Tewksbury High School track team has pledged to provide race helpers to direct runners during the race. For more information and race times, call the RE/MAX office at 851-4300.

Softball tourney more a bash than a battle

The Memorial Day weekend softball tournament in Wilmington is known as "The Battle of the Classes." But that is not really what happens at Town Park. The tournament is a chance for old friends to get together in a setting more relaxed than a class reunion.

The tournament, named for the late Tom Aprile, has been a popular event for the past dozen years.

The tournament will be held on Saturday and Sunday, May 23 and 24. Saturday's games are the preliminary round, with the playoffs on Sunday. The weekend wraps up with a party. Sorry, but you must be 21. The class of 1988 is the youngest in the tournament.

The tournament is divided into two age groups, out of a sense of fairness to the younger, less experienced teams. Defending champs this year are the classes of 1972 and 1985.

Anyone wanting to enter a team must sign up with Jack Cushing at the Town Park by May 18. He is there every night.

The schedule will be published in the Town Crier on May 20.

Pop Warner registration

Wilmington Pop Warner will be holding registration for boys and girls Saturday, May 16 at Fourth of July Headquarters from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Sign-up is on a first come, first served basis, so early registration is urged.

Youngsters who have not participated in the program before are urged to take a parent or guardian along as well as a birth certificate. At this sign-up the league is holding a food drive. Each person who takes in a donation of non perishable food will receive a $1 off per item up to a maximum of $5 per child and $15 per family.

Pop Warner feels that the Wilmington Food Commissary is a worthwhile cause and deserves support. Those with no children to register are also urged to drop by and donate any non-perishable food items they can afford.

Price for registration this season: Fifty dollars for the first child; $25 for the second child; $100 maximum charge per family. Along with the registration fee there is a $25 service fee per family. This service fee is refundable after six hours of your time is donated to Wilmington Pop Warner working any number of the events. More information will be available at registration.

This hospital is close to my home. After my procedure, it's also close to my heart.

Meet Joseph Sardo. Like many people, Joe thought the best medical care was way down the pike, not around the corner. Until he learned from his cardiologist, Dr. Aubrey Dickman, that he had a blockage of the artery in his left leg. That was when he was referred to Dr. Mark Connaughton at the New England Memorial Hospital Center for Interventional Radiology.

As a highly skilled specialist, Dr. Connaughton was able to diagnose and treat Joe's vascular disorder non-surgically, performing a balloon angioplasty. Aided by the unique technology of a state-of-the-art digital imaging system not available at most hospitals, Dr. Connaughton and his trained team were able to perform the corrective procedure precisely without having Joe undergo the risk and trauma of major surgery. Joe felt very little pain, went home the next day, and recuperated in no time.

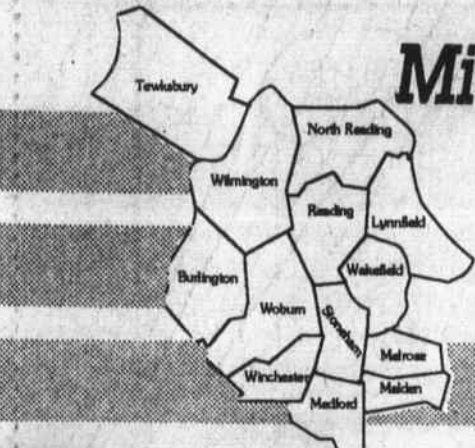

While some people are surprised that such breakthrough medical care is available so close to home, it's no longer a surprise to Joe Sardo. For the latest in quality patient care, he looks no further than his own community hospital.

For more information on the Center for Interventional Radiology, call (617) 979-7050.

Teen mothers who stay in school and graduate

A mother's love is the cornerstone of society. It is second only to Christ's love.
(Deacon Richard Hassey, St. Pius X Church, South Yarmouth)

By DOUGLAS WOOD-BOYLE

These words from a Mother's Day homily are especially appropriate when connected to young mothers who are taking advantage of a program that allows them to bring a life into this world while still learning what life means to themselves.

The women are Woburn High School students who take part in a program entitled "Focus on the Future," which, because of funding instabilities, faces a future that is as unsteady as that of its participants.

However, it is a future that has been faced several times in its nine years of existence in various forms.

As in the past, three people will work very hard to continue the program even if the money stops. Woburn Director of Guidance Leona Shanholtz, Guidance Counselor Shirley Geaney and Home Economics Counselor Eileen Malay will take on as much of the responsibility as their regular duties will allow.

The three go above and beyond the call of duty to provide resources, care and counseling to between 10 and 12 students per year that turn to them with the news of a pregnancy.

Geaney notes that Woburn is not as bad off as some schools such as Lowell who deal with about 30 to 40 pregnant teens per year, in a similar program.

The number is only a fraction of the teen population at Woburn High School.

"We work only with those young ladies who decide to carry," Shanholtz said, "We have no idea how many have decided to have abortions."

Contraception is another issue that the counselors do not have to get involved in as the people they deal with have already made a decision.

Geaney notes that the program is open to women from all ethnic and economic backgrounds. The three counselors also work with young mothers who range in age from ninth grade to high school graduates.

The program was originally started as a part of the Home Economics Department and eventually taken over by the guidance department. As in years past, this year it is mainly funded by federal funds from the Carl Perkins Grant which are distributed through the state Department of Education.

Geaney notes that the present program was set up from a model

Greater Boston Youth Symphony in Stoneham

The Greater Boston Youth Symphony Orchestra will be appearing at Stoneham High School on Saturday, May 23rd, at 7:45 p.m. sponsored by Greater Stoneham Community Concepts.

GBYSO, celebrating its 34th season, has grown from a single orchestra to include 240 members in four major ensembles. Its members travel from over 90 communities in all five New England states every Sunday, from September to June. The senior orchestra, who will play in Stoneham, has just returned from a successful European tour with concerts in Berlin, Prague and Slazburg.

Memberships are still available for the 1992-1993 season. The scheduled concerts for next season are varied, from the folk music of Helicon, the instrumentalization of Vancouver Wind Trio, jazz with Sam Pilosian and Travelin' Light to the vocal gymnastics of the Swingle Singers. An added incentive is that students under 18 are admitted free if accompanied by an adult member. Persons who sign up before May 23rd can hear this exciting concert as a bonus.

Please call (617) 438-7961 or (617) 944-5262 for more information, or come early on the 23rd for your membership.

Teen mothers

that was started in Malden, by Guidance Director Jackie Starr. Since those days, the Woburn program has gone on to set models of their own. Although the focus of the program is on the pregnant students and those that have already had their babies, it is also designed to help the parents and the families of the students and the father of the child. Geaney explained that when the young mother-to-be approaches one of the three counselors it sets up a series of motions. The first is to see if the student has been to a doctor and talked to her parents.

If not, either she or Malay see that those steps are taken. Malay said, "The pregnant teen is the most severely handicapped of people." One of the handicaps they face is the need for help to face their parents and the two counselors fill that need. According to Shanholtz, they have found that about 50 percent of the parents already know what is happening. However, those parents might experience real concerns about their daughter's future. Geaney said, "We offer hope that the daughter's life is not over." Shanholtz notes that the parents' concerns come from their experiences during the 1960's when the "only alternative for a pregnant girl was to leave school." Once the familial and medical support have been established, the next step that Geaney, Malay and Shanholtz help the young mother through is to advise the teachers as to what is taking place. The counselors also attempt to get the father of the child involved. Geaney said that most of them know what they have done. "They are told they can come into the program at anytime," she added. Malay explains that in a lot of cases the relationship with the father has disintegrated. "At that point the mother's needs become the primary concern." She added that the three counselors work hard to show that no one associated with the program is judgmental in any way. In this regard, Geaney and Malay research the outside medical counselors they will send the young mothers to see. "You don't want the women to be pressured by a person with a mind set," Geaney said. After the student has seen the outside counselors, "We ask them how they were treated," Geaney added. With all of the information gathered through the screening process and other research, Malay was able to put together a handbook which is given to the teens when they start with the program. Shanholtz noted that since 1989 the book has been used as a model in other school systems as well as being distributed to every teacher at Woburn's high school and middle school. Geaney also explained that the program looks to take care of the young mother, not just in school but out of it as well. For that reason, a link has been developed with the Visiting Nurses Association so that the mother can get needed medical and nutritional counseling when school is not in session. "The worse thing would be to provide a secure environment in

Lawrence Memorial to participate in cancer study

Lawrence Memorial Hospital of Medford announced last week it will participate in the first large-scale breast cancer prevention study in history. Launched by the federal government, the Breast Cancer Prevention Trial will test 16,000 women who are found to be at increased risk of developing breast cancer. The information gained from the study will help determine if the estrogen-related drug tamoxifen can reduce the number of breast cancers expected to occur in women at high risk of developing the disease. Last year, over 175,000 U.S. women were diagnosed with breast cancer. "This is a unique opportunity for the Lawrence and its patients to contribute to a National Cancer Institute study on the prevention of breast cancer," said C. Douglas Taylor, M.D., chief of Oncology/Hematology at Lawrence Memorial Hospital and coordinator of the Breast Cancer Research Trial at the Lawrence. "We are proud to be participating in a clinical study of such potential consequences. The information gained through this long-term research will be incredibly valuable to women everywhere."

Tamoxifen, the drug to be given to women in the study, is FDA approved and has been used for almost 20 years to treat advanced breast cancer. Since 1985, it has also been used as additional therapy after radiation and/or surgery for early-stage breast cancer. Studies suggest tamoxifen has been shown to prevent recurrences of breast cancer, as well as the development of new cancers in the opposite breast. Risks for breast cancer are determined by several factors, including: a previous diagnosis of breast cancer; a mother, sister or grandmother with breast cancer; never giving birth or giving birth after age 30; a long menstrual history; higher fat consumption; aging; obesity; and higher socioeconomic status. Eligible women interested in participating in the study can call the Lawrence Memorial Hospital of Medford at (617) 396-9250, Ext. 482 for further information. The start date in Medford will be about June 1.

the school and then on the last day say 'sorry, you're on your own'," Shanholtz said. One aspect of the program is to increase the awareness of the community. Malay notes that many doctor's offices and Winchester Hospital have increased their outreach programs. Shanholtz looks at the program as one that makes a contribution to the community as a whole. "There are many people out there who care and they can't reach the people who need the help," she said. As they were being interviewed one young mother-to-be came by and picked up a bundle of clothing and food that had been donated to the program. Geaney notes that although the program is set up to make life a little easier for the students, it is not set up to be a soft touch. "It is easier in a way," she said, "but they still have to do the required work." One aspect though is that the women in the program gain the respect of both their peers and their teachers. Other students see the problems they have to overcome and respect them for being able to overcome those problems. However, the counselors also believe it makes the other students stop and think before getting into the same predicament. Once the baby is born, the mother and family are encouraged to stay in the program. In one case, a young mother transferred to Woburn High School and she already had a two-year-old baby. With the help of the program, the mother was able to graduate and now lives on her own with the child and is a contributing member of society. Even students who have graduated still remain connected with the program enough to return to the school and help with the new mothers. Some of the mothers who have been a part of the welfare system have been encouraged enough by the program to get off the rolls and become self-supporting. Malay said, "What we do is to help them set realistic goals and then help them to reach those goals." Much of that direction is done by establishing the participants in patterns that can lead to success.

—Just over the horizon at Reading's Killam School is RISE, the Reading Integrated School Experience, an innovative model program which will bring three and four-year-old children without special needs into the special education preschool program already in place at the school, thanks to a go-ahead by the Reading School Committee.

The addition of tuition-paying - $90 per month - students will turn the special education class into a mainstreamed setting. The seven preschool special education students who attend the program daily from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. will be joined on Mondays and Thursdays by a group of eight children, and on Tuesdays and Fridays, by another group of eight.

Teacher Vicki Griffin and her staff have prepared a brochure for parents of prospective students - if more than 16 children apply, a lottery will be held.

—Local music specialists ran workshops at the recent 39th annual Massachusetts Music Educators Association All-State Concert.

With Frank Abrahams of the New England Conservatory and Stoneham Public Schools as clinician, Edmund Grammer (also of the conservatory and Stoneham) presided over "Bringing Music to Children: A Learning Styles Approach," a hands-on workshop to demonstrate how to incorporate teaching strategies that accommodate different student learning styles. The workshop showed teaching techniques which meet the needs of right and left brain differences and develop critical thinking and problem-solving skills in all children; and included sample lesson plans for elementary, middle and senior high students.

Now directing in Bedford, former Reading Music Director Barry Low, possibly remembering his days in Reading, presided over "Stress! Without Distress," a session designed to introduce participants to specific techniques which reduce stress and tension caused by forces in schools, community and home.

RARE AMERICAN AND EUROPEAN COLLECTOR CARS

On Sunday, May 17, the Museum of Transportation will hold its second annual New England Antique, Special Interest and Collector Car Auction. Lamb & Russo Auction Company has been selected to auction a diverse selection of sports cars, muscle cars and collector vehicles. Dave Brownell, editor of Hemmings Motor News and Special Interest Autos, will provide history and commentary on the vehicles as they are presented for bidding.

Shari West, Director of the Museum, encourages those who are looking to buy the car of their dreams to attend the auction where "they will find quality vehicles -- both American and European -- at reasonable prices" including a rare 1966 Fiat Ellena Coupe. She emphasizes that "unrealistic reserves are not being accepted. Consignors should know the fair market value of their automobiles and cars must have clean titles."

A Preview is scheduled for Saturday, May 16 on the Museum grounds in Larz Anderson Park (15 Newton Street) from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and the morning of sale. The Live Auction will begin promptly at 12 noon on Sunday, May 17. Since a portion of the proceeds benefit the Museum, Ms. West sees the auction as a terrific opportunity for individuals to make their "marque" and help preserve automotive history.

Admission to the sale is $25. Fee includes admission for two adults to the Preview, Sale and the Museum's 1992 exhibit Different By Design, as well as an order-of-sale and post-sale price key. Listing and post sale price key only is $5.

"Crisscross", Short Takes

by Rochelle Flynn
"Crisscross" Starring Goldie Hawn, David Arnett, Arliss Howard. Directed by Chris Menges. Produced by Anthea Sylbert. Screenplay by Scott Sommer. Rated R.

Though her name is above the title in "Crisscross," actress Goldie Hawn is greatly overshadowed by a wooden plot rife with good intentions, but far too earnest to take seriously.

Hawn plays Tracy Cross, a single mom who works two jobs to support her 12-year-old son, Chris (David Arnett). Hawn's husband (Keith Carradine) a pilot in the Vietnam War, abandoned his small family after a nervous breakdown. So Tracy waits tables in the mornings at a funky hotel and tends bar in the evenings at a strip joint. Chris, a serious and enterprising kid, works odd jobs and hopes to help save for a house.

Life isn't fun to begin with, but it takes a downward turn when Tracy decides to throw in her bar towel to bump and grind on stage. In an awkward and somewhat implausible scene, Chris sneaks into the topless bar and watches mom strip. While Hawn brings a sense of tragic resignation to the scene, it just isn't believable to think this kid could get into the bar and stick around without being noticed.

While the film's focus should remain on the relationship between Tracy and her son, it quickly shifts to a heavy-handed plot that is impossibly complicated and slow moving. Chris takes off to see his dad. Chris realizes his delivery job is just a cover for a couple of sleazy drug dealers. Chris decides to break the law to make money for his mom. The life lessons keep coming and coming and coming. By the time the film drags us through all of Chris' learning experiences, we really don't care what happens to him.

Director Chris Menges, a two time Academy Award-winning cinematographer, captures the laid back atmosphere of Key West, Florida, in the 1960s. Though he successfully translates the atmosphere of the period, he seriously lacks a sense of timing. The second half of the movie creeps along at such a creaky pace it will have you gazing at your watch more than the screen.

Hawn, however, brings a gritty strength to her character as a woman trying to do her best, even if her choices aren't carefully thought out. But the film centers on Arnett, who convincingly plays a boy older than his years. He mumbles occasionally, but Arnett successfully juggles all the conflicting emotions of pre-adolescence without losing any of the innocence.

GOLDIE HAWN both produces and stars in MGM's Crisscross, the story of a mother trying to raise her teenage son alone at the end of the turbulent '60s.

Arliss Howard does the best he can as Hawn's love interest, though his role is annoyingly sketchy. Carradine is amazingly powerful as the veteran who escapes from the world into a monastery. Carradine's very presence exudes a sadness before he even says a word.

Menges coaxed fabulous performances from his cast, but let the story sink under the weight of its own good intentions. By the time Christopher Cross takes his first steps into adulthood, you may feel as if you were in the theater 12 years yourself.

City of Joy stars an earnest Patrick Swayze as a disillusioned doctor who escapes to India in search of peace of mind. His story is paralleled by a poverty-stricken rickshaw driver. The focus is on the cynical doctor learning about hope, but it should be on the spirited Indian people who already understand the value of life. Director Roland Joffe may just miss intellectually, but the photography is amazing. Rated PG-13. ***

this unhappy road movie in which quirky characters are left to fill in for a very weak script. Rated R. * 1/2

Howard's End weaves the emotional story of two Edwardian families, one unbending and proper, the other free spirited and open. The two families are joined through marriage, resulting in some surprising changes for all parties. The film belongs to Emma Thompson as a strong, intelligent woman who brings the families together and then keeps them going. Rated PG. ****

The Player is director Robert Altman's ultimate skewering of Hollywood. Tim Robbins is a paranoid studio exec who manages to get away with murder as he tries to hold onto his job. Wicked and dark and very funny, this flick both pays tribute and lambastes Hollywood and our preoccupation with actors-as-gods. More than 60 stars show up to make fun of their biz and provide glitter for this amazing, entertaining film. Rated R. ****

Ferngully is a cute, if somewhat jumbled animated tale of the destruction of the Australian rain forest. Robin Williams and Tim Curry provide some great vocals, and this flick's heart is in the right place, but the plot combines a fairy tale with a real cautionary message that gets a little scrambled in the telling. Rated G.  1/2

Basic Instinct preys on our most gullible instincts to lure us into the theater. This movie may have some hot sex scenes, but the plot is ridiculous, all the women are treated as evil manipulative lunatics and the acting is nothing to brag about. An overacting Michael Douglas plays a screwed up cop who goes after Sharon Stone, a screwed up writer. If it hadn't been for all the hype, one suspects no one would have bothered with this lame flick. Rated R. * 1/2.

Audubon annual Bird-a-Thon

Calling all birders! Join a birding team to scour the state during Massachusetts Audubon's 10th annual 24-hour birding binge--Bird-a-Thon 1992.

Bird-a-Thon starts at 6 p.m. on Friday, May 15 and ends at 6 p.m. the following day.

Participants collect sponsors who pledge money for each species found in the 24-hour period. Funds raised go toward conservation at Massachusetts Audubon sanctuaries or through the Society's Bird Protection Fund. Prizes, which include Bushnell binoculars, books and tapes of interest to birders, will be awarded to participants who raise the most money and get the most sponsors.

Hundreds of birders will search far and wide to see and hear as many species as possible during the peak of spring migration. Hot spots in Massachusetts typically include the Mount Auburn Cemetery in Cambridge, the coastlines of the South Shore and Cape Cod, Mount Greylock in the Berkshires, the Quabbin Reservoir, and a number of areas in Essex County. The Society is looking for novice and expert birders as well as sponsors to be a part of this annual event.

More than 225 Bird-a-Thon participants logged a total of 236 species last year and raised more than $15,000. Birders logged 30 species of warblers; 23 different shorebirds; ten species of flycatchers; 13 different hawks, eagles and vultures; 23 ducks, geese and swans and ten species of herons.

Birders of all ages and all levels of experience are encouraged to participate by either joining or sponsoring a birding team or an individual birder. Eight-year-old Barrett Lawson of Lincoln saw a total of 93 species last year and collected over $2,000 for the Society's Drumlin Farm Wildlife Sanctuary.

Massachusetts Audubon President Gerard Bertrand and Field Ornithologists Wayne Petersen and Simon Perkins are among the expert Society birders who have joined sanctuary teams this year.

For information about this year's Bird-a-Thon -- how to get involved by making a pledge, sponsoring a group or joining a team, and some tips on this year's hot spots -- call the Massachusetts Audubon Society's Conservation Department at (617) 259-9500, Ext. 7412.

EMHS' announces first respite family

Put together the need of many parents living in the Eastern Middlesex area for a short relief from unending care with the generosity of some local businesses and you have Respite, a new program from Eastern Middlesex Services (EMHS).

With funding support from Household Finance Corporation, Building #19 Foundation and the Hewlett Packard Company, cooperating area hotels provide a getaway package at no cost to the parents/guardians of mentally retarded individuals.

Bart and Diane Ravin of Melrose are the first family to take part in Respite. The parents of 10 year old Mar, 4 year old Michael and 16 month old Allison, found that a whole weekend of uninterrupted rest and recreation courtesy of the Colonial Hilton in Wakefield was a real luxury. They felt secure knowing that the children were being cared for by a caring family member.

"We had never been exposed to special needs people," says Diane of her son Michael, who was born with Downs Syndrome. "Right away you have to deal with a whole new set of problems for which you are unprepared." She is quick to add, "These little people are real fighters. Everything he does he works real hard at. Things that come easily to us are so hard for him."

She recalls one day when she was lamenting the fact that Michael was unable to do some things for himself. She says her older son Mark gave her something to think about when he remarked, "Mom, you've got to start thinking about what he can do, not what he cannot do." Bart adds, "Michael has real spirit."

EMHS which is celebrating its 30th anniversary this year offers services for persons with mental illness or mental retardation and their families throughout its service area. For more information please contact Megan Allen or Ann Smith at (617) 246-2003.

Are you dizzy?

The Greater Boston Chapter of the Vestibular Disorders Association of America will meet on Thursday, May 14, 6 to 8 p.m. and Tuesday, May 19, 3 to 5 p.m. in Dining Room B, 7th floor at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary, Boston.

The support group is for people who experience dizziness or have balance disorders. Family and friends also welcome.

'Preservation Month'

Governor F. Weld and Secretary of State Michael J. Connolly joined with state preservationists recently to sign a proclamation declaring May as "Preservation Month." Preservation month is a time for all the cities and towns of the Commonwealth to plan events in celebration of the state's historic resources and preservation accomplishments.

"I encourage the citizens of the Commonwealth to take this opportunity to celebrate their heritage by organizing events around their towns' histories," said Secretary Connolly. "Preservation Month is a chance to bring history to life!"

The Massachusetts Historical Commission will celebrate Preservation Month by hosting the 14th annual Preservation Awards Ceremony. Fourteen awards will be given by Secretary Connolly to organizations and individuals who have performed outstanding preservation work during the year of 1991. The ceremony will take place at the Robert Treat Paine House in Waltham on May 14.

Malden Hospital presents "Nutrition in the 90s"

As part of Health Matters, The Malden Hospital's community education program, a nutrition lecture entitled, "Nutrition in the 90's" Eating on the Run" will be offered on Thursday, May 14th at 7 p.m. in The Malden Hospital Auditorium. This will be the first lecture in a two part series offered by nutritionist Joan Buchbinder, M.S., R.D.

Buchbinder's lecture will address healthy ways to eat when pressed for time. "People who have very little time or are constantly on the run may feel unable to eat a nutritional meal and instead may opt to grab a bag of chips and a soda out of a vending machine to help keep their energy level up and satisfy their hunger pains. There are many easy ways to prepare nutritional foods which are quick and appeal to your tastes and preferences," stated Buchbinder.

In addition to discussing healthy quick meals and snacks, Buchbinder will discuss how to order meals in restaurants in so that they are still enjoyable but are calorie controlled, emotional well-ness as well as eating to maintain a high energy level, and how stress relates to the way people eat.

"Nutrition in the 90's: Eating on the Run" is a free lecture open to the public. If interested in attending, please call The Malden Hospital's Health Matters line, at (617) 397-6000, to register.

ANTHONY MANCONI

Tony Stack from Melrose called up Jimmy "Pottsie" Geary of Lynnfield on the telephone and said, "Hello my friend. Can I borrow $200 from you?" "What did you say?" Jimmy asked. "I said, can I borrow $200 from you?" "I can't hear you, what did you say?" The telephone operator cut in saying, "Sir, there isn't anything wrong with your phone, I can hear your party perfectly well." "Is that so darling," Jimmy exclaimed, "Then you give that creep the $200!"

Metro Captain Dan Gately from Woburn stopped a car driven by Father Dick Messina with Father Ernest Tourigny and Father John Crispo as passengers for speeding. "We are going on a sick call," Father Dick tried to explain. "Look," Capt. Gately said, "I was an altar server, I taught Sunday School and attended Boston College. I never heard of three priests going on a sick call." Father Dick smiled and replied, "Captain, you must have missed the lesson on the 'Solemn High Sick Call'."

Three husky motorcycle "Cowboys" parked their mounts at a truck stop cafe in North Reading and swaggered in. They spotted a little fellow half their size having coffee and a sandwich. They jostled him, dipped their greasy fingers in his coffee, took a bite of his sandwich, and slapped the remainder on the table. The truck driver got up, paid his bill and hurried out. One of the bullies remarked to the waitress, "He wasn't much of a man, was he?" The waitress, glancing out the window, observed: "I guess not. He's not much of a truck driver either. He just drove over three motorcycles out front!"

Dennis Tully of Saugus told the judge, "Sir, I was in a telephone booth talking to my girlfriend. That man banged on the window shouting for me to get out, that he wanted to use the phone. He then opened the door, grabbed me and threw me out into the street." "I see," the judge said, "is that what started the fight?" "No your honor. The fight started when he went into the phone booth again, grabbed my girlfriend and threw her out too!"...The accent may be on youth but the "Stress" is on parents.... "Live and let live" is fine but "Live and HELP live" is a great deal better.

President Theodore Roosevelt was the "Father" of our treasured national parks. He said, "We are not building a country for a day, it must last 'Forever'!"...Well, finally, summer is just around the corner. It's another season and another reason to go to the beach. Esther Williams, the great champion swimmer, was asked her opinion of the modern bathing suits. She answered, "Most of them are nothing more than two Dixie Cups and a Bandaid."

A member of The American Rifle Association must have been the inventor of the short sleeve shirt. They advocate and endorse the "Right to Bare Arms."...A farmer advertised in the Farm Journal - "I would like to meet a woman about 30 who can drive a tractor. Please send photo of the tractor!"

Sign on a farm fence, "If you intend to cross this field, you better do it in 10 second. The Bull can do it in 12!"...Jimmy Fanikos of Melrose went to an eye clinic, opened a door and said to a beautiful young lady combing her hair in front of a mirror, "Good morning, I have to have my eyes examined." "I should say you do, you are in the ladies' room," she exclaimed.

A "Go-Getter" is a person who gets in behind you in a revolving door and comes out ahead of you...Dennis Tully's mother gave him this note for his teacher, "Please excuse Dennis for being late. His uncle died last night and I had a hard time waking him up this morning."

At a parent/ teacher meeting, Miss Sullivan said to Michael Nelson's mother, "If you promise not to believe everything your son says happens in school, I'll promise not to believe everything he says happens at home."...Folks, I would really appreciate receiving a card or letter from the new readers of Woodchips from Malden, Medford and Melrose. Send them to 531 Main St., Reading, MA 01867. If you like this column, address your cards or letters to me but if you hate the column address them to Kathy or Aunt Nora. They hate the column but read it every week. Thank you.

I was fishing off of the General Edwards Bridge when my Aunt Nora stopped her car, rolled down the window and shouted, "Hey Chipper, what are you doing, fishing?" "No," I yelled back, "I'm teaching a worm how to swim!" "Oh!" she exclaimed, "there's a worm on the other end of that line too?"

Joe Ravidia walked into the Malden Hospital one evening and was intercepted by the head nurse. "Why are you here?" she asked. "I have an urgent message for my sister, Nurse Kelly." The head nurse grabbed Joe Ravidia's hand, shook it warmly and said, "Oh! I'm so pleased to meet you. I'm Nurse Kelly's Mother!"

Adolescence is the time of "rapid change." Between the ages of 12 and 17, a parent ages as much as 20 years!...My cousin Mario DiMino went to the Melrose police station on Monday and reported that his car was stolen Friday. "Why did you wait three days before reporting it? Don't you know that car could be halfway to California by now?" "I know that," Mario replied, "That's why I didn't report it sooner. My wife was in the car!"

Fifth Annual K-9 Walk for Kids

The Boston area's most unique charity event will be unleashed on Sunday, June 7, when hundreds of dogs and their owners meet in Wakefield, for the fifth annual "K-9 Walk for Jerry's Kids." It's a crazy and fun twist on the charity walk-a-thon.

Participants will take a leisurely three mile stroll around beautiful Lake Quannapowitt and then enjoy a host of fun activities designed for pets and their families. To enter and receive a free K-9 kit, call (508) 777-0333.

There will be prizes for all owners and their four-legged friends. The grand prize, awarded to the top fundraiser, is a trip for four to Orlando or Tampa, Florida, plus kennel accommodations and a year's supply of Pedigree dog food for the lucky dog. Other prizes at the K-9 Walk will include dog bandannas, towel tote bags, dog food bowls and more.

Participants will collect funds (with a minimum of $40) for the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA) by asking neighbors, co-workers, businesses and others to make a donation. It's easy to do. Entrants find that donors are just itching to turn over some "scratch" for MDA.

"It's quite a sight," says Pedigree's Peter Kochanowski, referring to the spectacle of hundreds of dog lovers joining together to help a good cause. "Pedigree is proud to be involved as the event's main sponsor for the third year now and we have high hopes that we'll break last year's record," added Kochanowski. Nearly 350 families collected over $41,000 for MDA last year.

Festivities at the finish line will be hosted by WHDH Radio. The Family Channel and Warner Cable proudly present the event's honorary chairdog, Rin-Tin-Tin, the K-9 Cop. Bugs Bunny will ask, "What's up, dog," when you and your pet have your picture taken with the "wascaley wabbit," in the instant photo booth. There will be food concessions, T-shirts and videos for sale, educational booths and special demonstrations.

Appearing on the main stage will be singer and guitarist Rick Vitale of the acoustic band, Under Raps. Participants can test their skill at the "Dunk the Dog Officer" booth. Watch a demonstration of "Flyball," the exciting

ACA designates May "Correct Posture Month"

The month of May has been designated as "Correct Posture Month" by the American Chiropractic Association (ACA). This annual event, which is dedicated to posture awareness and structural health, is supported by more than 23,000 doctors of chiropractic throughout the U.S., their patients, public officials and the media.

To celebrate the event, a series of health activities and public education campaigns will take place during the month in which doctors of chiropractic will participate, provide community service, and emphasize the importance of correct posture. The celebration is designed to make more people aware of correct posture and spinal integrity as key elements in attaining and maintaining good health. It stresses posture's role in the healthy growth of the child, and it underlines correct posture's effect on physical and mental development.

In many communities proclamations are being issued by public officials supporting chiropractic's "save your back program," and commending doctors of chiropractic for their dedication to better health.

One of the key events will be the naming of the ACA's list of "Most Notable Postures." A nationwide poll of chiropractors will decide what celebrities top their list of notables in various categories, strictly on the basis of general appearance and carriage.

Said Charles F. Downing, D.C., president of the ACA, "The objective of Correct Posture Month is to create interest and direct the attention of the public to the role of posture and spinal integrity in the maintenance of health. Correct posture does more than just make you look good, as most people new competitive sport for canines.

Funds collected will support MDA's programs of direct patient care for area folks who have muscle diseases. Services like visits at one of five Boston hospital clinics and medical equipment like recognize, it also makes you feel good."

The chiropractic official, who practices in San Antonio, Texas, pointed out that even looking in a rear-view mirror doesn't give the real picture as it relates to health. A person can be erect and be visually attractive, yet be suffering with a structural imbalance or distortion of the spine. Only a thorough spinal examination can determine the structural integrity of the spine. It is estimated that one out of three persons has a back problem, many of them undetected, mainly because they do not have preventive spinal examinations on a regular basis.

"The emphasis during Correct Posture Month is examination and diagnosis. Correct posture, which is one of the elements of a balanced structural system, is the key to better health. It provides greater physical efficiency, more energy and aids also in job performance," Dr. Downing said.

'Self-Esteem Group' offered for children

Helping children gain self-confidence and develop a sense of self-worth are goals of the "Children's Self-Esteem Group," a program offered by New England Memorial Hospital (NEMH), Stoneham. It is designed to help children, ages 5-12, form positive relationships with others and improve communication and coping skills.

Individuals experiencing low self-esteem often feel dissatisfied or feel that they cannot make themselves understood. Children with low self-esteem may have poor relationships with parents, siblings or peers. They may appear to be quiet or withdrawn, are afraid to try new things or may "act out" at home or at school. Parents of these children may feel that their youngsters are not working to their full ability or are struggling to be perfect.

The "Children's Self-Esteem Group" runs from July 6 through August 31.

Participants are allowed only one excused absence. Pre-group interviews will be conducted in August and September.

The program may be covered by Medicaid and many insurance plans, including many health maintenance organizations (HMOs). For more information, or to register for the "Children's Self-Esteem Program," contact Alexandra Erickson at the NEMH Psychiatric Services Department, at (617) 979-7025.

wheelchairs are provided at no cost to families who have one of the 40 muscle diseases covered under MDA's program.

At Melrose - Wakefield Hospital

Computer consultant volunteers

If a computer consultant with three degrees has been out of work for six months and can't find a job, but wants to remain active and contribute until that next job comes along, what does he do?

Tom Pascarella of Wakefield volunteered his services at Melrose-Wakefield Hospital!

Pascarella is only one of many in the area feeling the crunch of the economic recession. Originally from Everett, he now lives in Wakefield with his wife Irma. He has been a part of the workforce for over 30 years, and this is the first time he has found himself without a job.

After leaving Wang, Pascarella went to work in the engineering department at a fiber optic and photoelectronic controls company in Woburn where he designed and developed product manuals, marketing materials and courses. This was a contract job which ended last October. Since then, Pascarella has been unemployed.

"I have a bachelor's in education from Fitchburg State College, a master's in business management from Lesley College and an associate's in electronics technology from Bunker Hill Community College."

Pascarella did have things planned very well, but as he learned, you can never completely plan for the unexpected.

"It's very frustrating when you're unemployed," relates Pascarella. "We all work to bring home money to pay the bills, obviously. But money is not the only reason we work. We need to maintain our self-esteem, to preserve our sense of self-worth and perhaps most importantly, to contribute to society."

It was for all these reasons that he decided to volunteer his services at an organization that could benefit from them.

Pascarella called to offer his services to MWH Volunteer Coordinator Judy Worthley who that very day had been discussing the possibility of putting a class together with MWH Education Director Marie Cleary.

"I couldn't believe it," says Worthley. "We are discussing this situation and then someone with an extensive computer training background calls us the same day offering his services for free! We were ecstatic and had him come in the very next day."

Cleary and Pascarella then made an assessment of computer needs of employees throughout the hospital and in two weeks time set up a three-session course for ten hospital employees.

Pascarella thoroughly enjoyed the experience, he says, and made him feel very welcome. "They were eager to learn and very appreciative of learning a new skill," says Tom. "They were a good bunch to work with."

In fact, things worked out so well that Pascarella is currently teaching an intermediate class for WordPerfect for hospital employees. He'll continue to offer his services until the day comes, which he hopes will be soon, when he is fortunate to land a new job.

Ladies Luncheon at Shriners' Temple

Helping the Shriners Hospitals will be the focus of a Ladies Luncheon to be held Saturday, May 23, at the Shriners Temple (Aleppo), Wilmington. Keynote speaker will be Janet Jeggelian of WRKO Boston.

Traditionally, Shriners undertake fund-raising events for the benefit of the Hospitals, "but the time has come," said Sylvia Pann of North Reading, wife of the current Potentate, "when the ladies want to do their part too. Healthcare costs are rising, and we all need to work extra hard to make sure that burned and crippled children receive the specialized medical care they need at no cost," continued Lady Sylvia.

Pat Krussell of Ipswich will transform Aleppo Temple's Fez Room into a spring garden bordered by an avenue of boutiques. Of special interest will be a display of drawings made by patients at the Boston and Springfield Shrine Hospitals. They are matted for framing and will be for sale.

Serving on the Luncheon Committee are Norma Antonetti, North Chelmsford; Doris Rosten, North Andover; Jeanne Zeller, Lowell; Dea-Ann Burgess, North

Reading; June Nickerson, Rowley; Louise Chase, Peabody; and Betty Gebow, West Peabody.

Tickets should be purchased by May 10 and may be obtained by calling June Nickerson at (508) 531-0150 (days), (508) 948-7061 (evenings).

Many local 4-H youths attend "Visual Presentation Day"

As a part of the Cooperative Extension Middlesex County 4-H program, members receive training necessary to conduct a public presentation. 4-H'ers are given instruction in public speaking techniques, audio visual aids and grooming. After intensive training and competition conducted in local communities, the 4-H member conducts a presentation at a countywide event in front of an audience of family, friends, club members and 4-H judges.

Visual Presentation contest participants are judged on their speaking skills, poise, accuracy of information and visual materials. Judges prepare an evaluation sheet offering praise, encouragement and constructive criticism. Outstanding individuals from among the group of first place blue ribbon winners are invited to participate at the Massachusetts 4-H Visual Presentation Contest held at Nashoba Valley Regional High School in Bolton.

This year the following local Middlesex County 4-H members were selected to be among the 312 individuals who competed at the state 4-H event on April 11: Kevin Magee of Burlington; Brian Salt, Valera Marsden, Stephanie Speers, Christina Welsh, Caitlin Maloney, Rae Ellen Bradley, Kate Monagle, all of North Reading; Heidi Murphy, Jill Truscello, both of Tewksbury; Joy Clark of Wilmington; Jennifer Dunbar, Kate Kehoe, Kristen Olsson, all of Woburn.

Over 550 parents, 4-H volunteers and family members attended this year's Massachusetts 4-H Visual Presentation Day, providing an audience and support at this increased level of competition. Receiving rosettes at this level were the following 4-H'ers: Rae Ellen Bradley, Stephanie Speers of North Reading; Heidi Murphy of Tewksbury; Joy Clark of Wilmington; Jennifer Dunbar, Kate Kehoe, Kristen Olsson of Woburn.

For more information about the Massachusetts 4-H program or how you may become a volunteer, contact Carol Halewood, UMass Extension Center, (617) 891-0650.

Malden Mammography Center reaccredited

The Malden Hospital announced today that its Breast Center, the first mammography center in Massachusetts to receive accreditation by the American College of Radiology, has been reaccredited.

Steven B. Sitzman, M.D., medical director of the radiology department and a radiologist at the Breast Center, said that accreditation ensures that women who use the facility receive quality mammography with the lowest possible x-ray dose to the breast. More than 4,000 screening and problem solving mammograms are performed at the center every year, Sitzman said. Four board certified radiologists with a combined total of 40 years experience in mammography interpret the results. Kathryn Kane, R.T., the technologist who performs most of the mammograms, recently passed an examination and received special certification in mammography by the American Registry of Radiologic Technologists.

Because the Breast Center is accredited, Sitzman said, "If a woman comes here for her mammogram, she knows that all the equipment we use -- the film, the x-ray machine, the film processor -- are of the finest quality and designed specifically for mammography. She also can be assured that we have people who are trained to perform and to interpret the films correctly."
